Dear Ms. London:

The Committee on the Judiciary is examining fraud in Obamacare subsidies and the potential for federal regulatory procedure laws to help identify and eliminate fraud. Earlier this year, a federal judge blocked a regulation issued by the Trump Administration to fight Obamacare subsidy fraud, claiming it violated the Administrative Procedure Act (APA).¹ As we continue this oversight, we respectfully write to request documents and information to help the Committee's examination of Obamacare fraud.

Beginning in 2014, Obamacare created government-run marketplaces for individuals to purchase healthcare and created a subsidy system in which the federal government would pay some of the premiums for these individuals.² The subsidies are in the form of advanced premium tax credits (APTCs) paid directly from the federal government to insurance companies.³ The subsidies are designed to cover an enrollee's total premium payment that exceeds a percentage of their income.⁴ As such, when insurers raise the costs of health insurance, consumers do not pay the increased price or directly receive the increased subsidy.⁵ Instead, the government sends additional taxpayer money directly to the health insurance companies.⁶

During the COVID-19 pandemic, the Biden-Harris Administration and the Democrat-led Congress passed a law that temporarily increased the Obamacare subsidies.⁷ These temporary enhancements increased the amount of previously available APTCs and expanded the population of APTCs to include high-income households that did not previously qualify under Obamacare.⁸ The Biden-Harris Administration and the Democrat-led Congress subsequently extended the enhanced subsidies in 2022.⁹ These temporary enhancements will now expire at the end of 2025, and the subsidies will return to the original Obamacare levels.¹⁰ Notably, the largest benefits under the enhancements go to households with incomes over 400 percent of the federal poverty level—$128,600 for a family of four in 2025—who did not qualify for any subsidies under the original Obamacare levels.¹¹

The Obamacare subsidies are notoriously rife with waste, fraud, and abuse.¹² A recent report from the U.S. Government Accountability Office found that fraudsters used tens of thousands of Social Security Numbers to obtain Obamacare subsidies fraudulently.¹³ Some of the fraud comes from brokers, who are paid by insurance companies for each enrollment and are, therefore, incentivized to enroll as many people as possible—whether eligible or not.¹⁴ Brokers have targeted individuals with deceptive advertisements and pressured enrollees to lie about their incomes to obtain Obamacare subsidies.¹⁵ Evidence suggests that many individuals do not even know they are signing up for health insurance or agreeing to switch plans.¹⁶ In October 2024, the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services acknowledged that it had received 90,000 complaints between January and August of 2024 from patients who lost their health insurance because their plans had been fraudulently changed without their consent.¹⁷

On June 25, 2025, the Trump Administration issued a final regulation to fight the fraud, waste, and abuse caused by the Obamacare subsidies.¹⁸ The rule would have required, among other things, that the federal government check for subsidy eligibility in certain instances before someone enrolls, verify income when an enrollees claimed income does not match IRS data, and allow for verification of income when tax data is unavailable.¹⁹ The rule would have gone into effect on August 25, 2025, but a Biden-appointed judge issued a stay that prevented the fraud-protection measures in the rule from going into effect.²⁰ The court asserted that the Trump Administration had violated the APA when promulgating the rule.²¹ The decision is currently on appeal.²²
