EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

When the American people recall the Trump Administration’s abhorrent “family separation” policy—more commonly known as “family separation”—most think of that short period of time in May and June of 2018 when thousands of children were separated from their parents after crossing the southwest border. Public outrage at this cruel policy was swift and shared by Democrats and many Republicans alike. In a matter of weeks, the policy was enjoined by the courts and rescinded by an executive order—flawed in its own right—setting off a mad scramble by government agencies to return children to their parents. Today, after years of investigation and analysis, it is clear that the Trump Administration’s family separation policy lasted far longer than is commonly known. It is also evident, as noted by the American Civil Liberties Union in a recent status report, that hundreds of children will likely never be reunited with their parents.¹ These preventable tragedies must not be forgotten.

On January 11, 2019, the House Committee on the Judiciary (hereinafter “the Committee”) launched an investigation into the Trump Administration’s family separation policy,² requesting that the Departments of Homeland Security (DHS), Justice (DOJ), and Health and Human Services (HHS) produce documents, materials, memoranda, and other information relating to this sad chapter in our nation’s history. These primary source documents provided exclusively to the Committee, together with outside resources and government reports, chronicle the development of the family separation policy from February 2017 to November 2018.

Unfortunately, only one department, HHS, meaningfully cooperated with the Committee’s investigation. Although relevant DHS and DOJ emails, memos, and documents were released publicly through Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests or leaks to the press, these departments provided little pertinent documentation directly to the Committee. Despite this lack of cooperation, the documents that were provided or otherwise made available to the Committee are revelatory. Our examination of these documents allows us to provide the first complete narrative of the Trump Administration’s inhumane family separation policy, in the Administration’s own words. The investigation reveals a process marked by reckless incompetence and intentional cruelty.

Among other findings, this report concludes that the Administration began formulating its plan to separate parents from their children as early as February 2017, less than one month after the President's inauguration. In July 2017, DHS and DOJ began to implement that plan through a family separation pilot program in the El Paso Border Patrol Sector. During this pilot program, which lasted five months, Trump Administration officials discovered that the government was unable to track separated family members in a way that allowed for later reunification of children with their parents.

² This report uses the term “family separation,” as the term “Zero Tolerance” fails to capture the full scope and intended cruelty of the Administration’s choices. In addition, separations were occurring in significant numbers for almost one year before the Administration announced its “Zero Tolerance” policy in May 2018. Also, families were separated even where no prosecutions were pursued—such as where parents with children came to ports of entry, as the lead plaintiff in the ACLU litigation did. In other words, the Administration pursued a family separation policy long before it developed and employed the “Zero Tolerance” moniker.

Despite full knowledge that hundreds of children would likely be lost to their families forever, the Administration chose to expand the pilot program into a permanent nationwide policy. Causing further confusion, DHS leadership failed to provide advance notice to Customs and Border Protection (CBP) officers prior to the announcement of the nationwide policy, resulting in the chaotic and inconsistent implementation of the policy across the southwest border. When the policy eventually ended, the lack of interagency planning, coordination and capacity was evident. As Administration officials had predicted, the government lacked the capacity to track separated family members. Efforts to reunify separated children continue to this day.

Significant Documents and Findings:

Although this report draws on outside sources to form a complete narrative, several significant documents cited herein were disclosed to the Committee over the course of its investigation. These documents, which have not been shared publicly before now, reveal the extent of the chaos that enveloped the federal government during the planning and implementation of the family separation policy, as well as its failed attempts to reunite families.³ Among the new documents made public by this report are:

1. A 338-page spreadsheet detailing more than 860 complaints involving family separations made to the DHS Office for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties (CRCL).⁴
2. A November 2017 email exchange between Commander Jonathan White of the Office of Refugee Resettlement (ORR) and then-Acting CBP Commissioner Kevin McAleenan about the increased number of separations that HHS had been seeing since August 2017.⁵ Unbeknownst to HHS, CBP had been conducting a family separation pilot in the El Paso Border Patrol Sector that led to hundreds of separations. When Acting Commissioner McAleenan responded to the email in December 2017,⁶ he noted that HHS would see fewer separations moving forward but did not divulge that a pilot program had been implemented or that it was being ended.

3. An internal March 5, 2018 HHS email indicating that as of March 2, 2018, at least 625 children had been separated from their parents, more than one third of whom were under the age of eight.⁷ In the email, an HHS official expresses concern with CBP recordkeeping, noting that over 100 cases involving separated children were not reported by DHS as involving family separation.⁸
4. An April 23, 2018 HHS email indicating that at least 856 children had been separated from their parents to date in fiscal year 2018, including an increase of 231 separations in just 6 weeks.⁹ Of the 856 children, 26 percent were under the age of five.¹⁰
5. Sector-level guidance from the Border Patrol, including guidance issued after the family separation policy was announced in May 2018 and guidance issued after the policy was ended in June of 2018.¹¹ These documents show that the implementation of the family separation policy was inconsistent and disorganized, resulting in significant confusion.
6. Multiple emails between HHS and Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) during the summer of 2018 confirming that the Administration had no plan to reunify separated parents with their children.¹² These emails show that HHS was aware of the problem and attempted to improve and maintain tracking procedures while DHS gave the issue little to no thought.

7. An email from Matt Albence, then-Executive Associate Director of ICE Enforcement and Removal Operations (ERO), to HHS sent three days after President Trump ordered the end of the family separation policy. Mr. Albence expressed confusion over the agencies' difficulties linking separated parents with their children:

Are you saying you don't have the alien number for any parents? This information should already be in the UAC portal. While I understand that information may be lacking in some instances, for those of you that have [sic], it wouldn't be efficient for us to run all of these.¹³

Tom Fitzgerald of HHS responded: "No, we do not have any linkages from parents to UACs...we have a list of parent alien numbers but no way to link them to children."¹⁴

8. Multiple email exchanges from the summer of 2018 recording instances of chaos during the reunification process, including an instance in which HHS took 37 "tender age" children (children under the age of 12) to an ICE detention facility to be reunited with their parents.¹⁵ After waiting at the facility for eight hours, HHS took the children back to the bus to await processing; by 10:30 PM that night, they were still waiting.¹⁶ Noting that there were multiple buses waiting in the parking lot, an HHS staffer lamented, "There has to be a better process."¹⁷
9. A June 2018 email from ORR Director Scott Lloyd suggesting that the agency primarily focus on reuniting families that were highlighted in media reports, telling his staff to compile all press stories regarding separated parents and children, and expressing his desire to try to resolve those cases.¹⁸

I. The Beginnings of Family Separation

Within weeks of taking office, President Trump announced several executive orders and policy initiatives to severely limit immigration to the United States.¹⁹ Reports quickly began to circulate about an initiative to separate children from their parents at the southwest border as a way of deterring irregular migration. In mid-February 2017, just weeks after the presidential inauguration, CBP Commissioner McAleenan hosted a meeting with HHS officials in which the idea of family separation was raised.²⁰ In early March, Secretary of Homeland Security John Kelly confirmed that DHS was considering family separation, stating:

Yes, I'm considering [that], in order to deter more movement along this terribly dangerous network. I am considering exactly that. [Children] will be well cared for as we deal with their parents.²¹

The next morning, Assistant DHS Secretary for International Affairs Dimple Shah emailed Gene Hamilton, then-Counselor to the DHS Secretary, asking to “discuss the ‘separating families’ issues raised at the morning huddle.”²²

A. Initial 900 Percent Spike in Family Separations

Even though a formal policy had yet to be fully developed, by the end of March 2017 there had already been a significant increase in the percentage of children separated from their parents and transferred to ORR—the agency within HHS responsible for the care of unaccompanied alien children (UAC). According to data provided to the Government Accountability Office (GAO), in November 2016, the percentage of children in ORR custody as a result of family separation was 0.3 percent.²³ By March 2017, that number had jumped to 2.6 percent, an increase of almost 900 percent.²⁴

B. The Attorney General Prioritizes Prosecution of Immigration Related Offenses

In April 2017, then-Attorney General Jeff Sessions issued a memorandum directing federal prosecutors along the southwest border to prioritize the prosecution of immigration related offenses.²⁵ This directive marked the beginning of a significant change in policy that would effectively cause family separations. Congress had attached criminal penalties to “improper entry” (a misdemeanor) and “improper re-entry” (a felony) almost 100 years ago, but DOJ had historically declined to prioritize asylum seekers, especially families, for prosecution.²⁶ Attorney General Sessions’ memorandum began to change that.

Under the new directive, if a family unit (parent and child) is apprehended by CBP and the decision is made to charge the parent with improper entry or re-entry, the parent is separated from his or her child and transferred into the custody of the U.S. Marshals Service (USMS). The child, who is not charged nor placed in Marshals Service custody, is detained separately and classified as an unaccompanied alien child (UAC). And under current law, UACs apprehended by CBP must be sent to ORR custody within 72 hours, where they remain until a suitable sponsor can be identified.

Although Attorney General Session’s directive made no mention of separating families, by prioritizing prosecution of immigration related offenses, the directive effectively ensured that family separation would occur. This set the stage for a formal family separation policy.

II. July 2017 – November 2017: Family Separation Pilot Program in the El Paso Sector

In July 2017, CBP began an “initiative” (hereinafter the “El Paso Pilot Program”) in the El Paso Southwest Border Patrol Sector, which includes parts of West Texas and all of New Mexico, to drastically increase criminal prosecutions of apprehended individuals, including parents arriving with minor children.²⁷ The Border Patrol reportedly coordinated these additional prosecutions with the U.S. Attorney’s Office in New Mexico.²⁸ Although the El Paso Pilot Program resulted in over 281 family separations in just four months,²⁹ it does not appear that CBP, or any DHS component, disclosed the existence of the program to ORR.

A. ORR Attempts to Accommodate Increased Numbers of Family Separations

Accustomed to caring for migrant children who arrive unaccompanied at the border, ORR leadership did not initially question the reason for the growing number of children entering into their custody during the summer of 2017. Accordingly, in July 2017, Jonathan White, Coordinating Official and Incident Commander for the ORR UAC Program, issued a memo to ORR staff with models for calculating the need for more UAC beds.³⁰ One option for calculating beds, referred to as the “DHS Deterrence Model,” assumed that DHS could implement widespread family separations in the future.³¹

By August 2017, however, the percentage of separated children in ORR custody had climbed an alarming 1,200 percent since November 2016.³² This led ORR to compile and review data on children who entered its custody during the last five months.³³ This data revealed a marked increase in separations, particularly in the El Paso Border Patrol Sector.³⁴ For example, during the week of August 10, 2017, nine of the ten family separations recorded by ORR were from the El Paso Sector.³⁵ All but one separation involved a “tender age” child.³⁶ By the end of August, HHS shared with DHS staff a document, titled the “Separated Child from Parent Tracking spreadsheet,” and offered to send updated data to DHS weekly.³⁷

B. ORR Struggles to Care for Separated Children

By September 2017, ORR leadership began expressing concern with the increasing number of children—including infants—that were being referred to ORR after separation from a parent. Tricia Swartz, Associate Deputy Director of Children’s Programs at ORR, expressed frustration with the situation, stating:

³⁶ Id. Over a two-week period, 37 UACs referred to ORR had been separated from a parent, compared to 44 in all of July, 26 in June, 23 in May, and 10 in April. Additionally, 50 percent of all reported separated UAC referrals in August 2017 occurred in El Paso, with 54 percent of the August separations due solely to previous unauthorized entries, compared to an average of 22 percent from April through July.

³⁷ Emails from James De La Cruz to Julie Plavsic, Senior Policy Advisor, Parental Interests and Legal Access, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement, Dep’t of Homeland Security, and Maryam Ali, Special Assistant, Office of the Director, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement, Dep’t of Homeland Security (Aug. 25, 2017), at Appendix AA.

DHS Policy is working on a family separation policy again, to send all children to ORR. They don't understand that ORR has its own obligations and these types of cases often end up with [the] parent repatriated and kid(s) in our care for months pending home studies, international legal issues, etc.³⁸

Despite the impact on the agency, ORR was not informed of the ongoing pilot program for at least three months after its initiation. In November 2017, Commander White contacted ORR Director Scott Lloyd to notify him that the number of family separations had increased and raise concerns over ORRs capacity to accept more children, stating:

We had a shortage last night of beds for babies . . . Overall, infant placements seem to be climbing over recent weeks, and we think that's due to more separations from mothers by CBP.³⁹

Six days later, Commander White raised the alarm again, this time emailing Acting CBP Commissioner Kevin McAleenan, ICE Director Tom Homan, and ORR Director Lloyd to once again notify them of the increase in referrals of separated children and to express similar concerns regarding ORR's capacity to accommodate these children.⁴⁰ In this email, Commander White provided detailed information to demonstrate that since July 2017, UAC referrals due to family separation increased sharply from previous months.⁴¹

Despite these reports, DHS failed to provide a meaningful response to Commander White or notify him of the El Paso Pilot Program. After three weeks, Acting CBP Commissioner McAleenan finally responded, noting that Commander White and ORR should have "seen a change in the past 10 days or so" and stating that they would coordinate on future plans.⁴² Commissioner McAleenan did not disclose to HHS that CBP had just completed the El Paso Pilot Program, which, according to GAO, resulted in at least 281 separations in just over four months.⁴³

With no assistance from DHS during the El Paso Pilot Program, ORR officials searched for creative solutions to reunite children in their custody with their families. One official noted, "[w]e suspect that there are other UAC[s] being separated from parents at the border so we have asked [CBP Headquarters] to ask their field offices to be more vigilant in reporting these cases."⁴⁴ These officials also began coordinating with the New Mexico Public Defenders Office, which had also noticed a spike in family separations and started tracking cases.⁴⁵

At the end of the pilot, CBP headquarters became aware of a “deficiency” in its records systems that prevented government officials from tracking separated children and parents.⁴⁶ Although CBP agents in El Paso asked CBP headquarters to address this issue, CBP failed to make any changes to its records systems to fix the tracking problem.⁴⁷

III. December 2017 to March 2018: Family Separations Continue to Rise

Despite the termination of the El Paso Pilot Program around November 2017, the number of family separations continued to rise between December 2017 and March 2018. According to ORR data, as of March 2, 2018, at least 625 children were separated from their parents since the beginning of the fiscal year, more than one third of whom were under the age of eight.⁴⁸ Internal emails during this time period show problems with CBP recordkeeping; more than 100 cases that were not initially recorded as separations by CBP were later corrected by HHS.⁴⁹

DHS internal documents confirm the high number of family separations that were occurring in the months prior to the formal announcement of the “Zero Tolerance” policy. A spreadsheet detailing complaints to the DHS Office for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties (CRCL) includes more than 150 entries of family separations that occurred prior to May 2018, many of which highlighted the needless cruelty of the policy.⁵⁰ For example, two children—one 14 years of age, and the other 16—were separated from their parents in December 2017 and January 2018 respectively, each without warning and with no chance to say goodbye.⁵¹ Fifty children under the age of 5 were separated from their parents prior to April 6, 2018, including four children who were less than 1 year old.⁵²

Even as family separations continued to increase in the absence of a formal policy, then-Secretary of Homeland Security Kirstjen Nielsen initiated efforts to formally develop and implement such a policy. On December 11, 2017, ICE staff were instructed to draft memoranda evaluating options on “separating Family Units and on vetting sponsors” for minors in the UAC program.⁵³ And in January 2018, CRCL prepared recommendations for a “DHS Family Separation Workgroup” based on a two-year investigation of family separations matters.⁵⁴ The CRCL report indicates that, during this investigation, CRCL uncovered a number of serious issues, including prolonged separation of parents and children, lack of decision-making criteria for separations, and inconsistent record keeping.⁵⁵

During this same period, immigration advocates sued the Trump Administration to reunite an asylum-seeking mother and her 7-year-old daughter who were fleeing violence in the Democratic Republic of Congo, only to be separated in the United States and detained 2,000 miles apart.⁵⁶ This lawsuit, Ms. L. v. ICE, would eventually become the primary case leading to the end of the Trump Administration’s family separation policy.

IV. April 2018 to June 2018: the Formal Family Separation Policy Known as “Zero Tolerance”

On April 6, 2018, Attorney General Sessions announced the implementation of a “Zero Tolerance” policy along the southwest border, mandating the prosecution of all adults who crossed the border between official ports of entry.⁵⁷ This announcement came almost one year after the Attorney General directed U.S. Attorneys to prioritize prosecutions of improper entry and re-entry cases. As part of the new announcement, the Department of Justice directed U.S. Attorneys along the southwest border to work with DHS to increase the number of such prosecutions to the maximum extent practicable. In the one-page memorandum, the Justice Department provided little guidance to prosecutors, leaving much of the implementation—including the treatment of family units—open to interpretation.⁵⁸

As demonstrated above, although many believe that family separation was first implemented along the southwest border at the time of this announcement, hundreds of families had already been torn apart by family separation policies since April 2018. HHS internal reports from April 2018 indicated that at least 856 children had been separated from their parents to date in fiscal year 2018, including 231 separations in just eight weeks.⁵⁹ Of these 856 children, 26 percent were under the age of five,⁶⁰ including a three-year-old boy and his blind, six-year old sister, both of whom were separated from their mother.⁶¹ An ORR complaint to CRCL also documented the separation of an infant under the age of one from his father with “no reason given,” although notes in ICE’s internal documentation system suggest that the adult’s relationship to the child was questionable due to “differences in skin pigmentation” and “discomfort holding the UAC.”⁶²

At the end of April 2018, Border Patrol Sector Chiefs along the southwest border issued guidance to agents on the implementation of the Attorney General’s order. Email correspondence indicates that these Sector Chiefs first perceived the guidance as “not new,” generally noting that parents in “family units” were to not be referred for prosecution.⁶³ This perception would soon change.

A. Implementation of Family Separation Policy

On May 4, 2018, DHS began to fully implement the family separation policy announced by the Attorney General the previous month. Two weeks later, Gene Hamilton, then-Counselor to the Attorney General, informed Acting Attorney General Matthew Whitaker that prosecutions along the southwest border increased by more than 22 percent over the past week.⁶⁴ The email also notes that while DOJ charged approximately 2,700 defendants each month in the first months of 2018, the Department was on track to issue the same number of charges each week going forward.⁶⁵

Troublingly, it appears CBP—the agency primarily responsible for implementing the policy—gave no advance warning about its implementation to Border Patrol agents. Rather than circulating uniform guidance from CBP headquarters to all sectors across the southwest border, individual sectors issued their own guidance on different days and times, with significant discrepancies, as detailed in the chart below.⁶⁶ For example, the guidance issued in the El Centro sector allowed for no exceptions to the family separation policy, while other sectors provided exceptions for families with young children or children with physical or mental disabilities.

Examples of Inconsistent Guidance from Border Chiefs on Family Separation

Border Patrol Sector	El Centro ⁶⁷	Del Rio ⁶⁸	El Paso ⁶⁹	Big Bend ⁷⁰
Geographic Area	Part of Southern California	Central Texas	West Texas and New Mexico	Just east of El Paso, TX
Effective Date	Initially May 4, Delayed to May 7	May 4	May 4	May 4
Exceptions to Family Separation	None.	On a case by case basis, children with physical and mental disabilities. Children Under the Age of 5.	Will leave one adult with children 4 or younger. Children in poor health who cannot speak Spanish.	Children 5 years or younger. (On June 7 this was changed to 12 years or younger.)

Due to such inconsistent guidance, the separation process was often chaotic and even more cruel than necessary. For example, children were separated from their parents at mealtimes, while being boarded onto buses destined for ORR facilities, and often without explanation or knowledge of their parent's whereabouts, leaving no chance for the parent and child to say goodbye.⁷¹ In an audio clip released by ProPublica in June 2018, children are heard desperately crying out for their mothers and fathers.⁷² An individual—presumably a Border Patrol agent—quips, “[w]ell, we have an orchestra here... What’s missing is a conductor.”⁷³ Complaints to CRCL reveal multiple cases of minors being mistreated in CBP or ICE custody, including an 8-year-old who was reportedly kicked or hit with a shoe by CBP officers when he was sleeping in an apparent effort to wake him up.⁷⁴

The chaos and cruelty were exacerbated by carelessness in tracking separations. For example, although DHS used a web-based spreadsheet to track separated children, many users had editing privileges, making data entry especially error prone.⁷⁵ Many entries were missing essential information, such as the parent’s name or alien registration number,⁷⁶ creating significant challenges when ORR later attempted to reunite children with their families. With respect to children correctly identified as separated, DHS employees frequently re-logged them into the tracking system, creating duplicate entries.⁷⁷

B. ORR Leadership Was Slow to Respond Despite Prior Warnings from Civil Servants

Notwithstanding Commander White’s July 2017 warning that a family separation policy would require HHS to obtain more beds, the agency remained unprepared for the policy and the resulting surge of UAC referrals. In May 2018, ORR was already operating at 87 percent capacity for UACS referred to its custody.⁷⁸ On May 10, 2018, ORR Director Lloyd failed to communicate any urgency to CBP Commissioner McAleenan, stating:

on capacity: we have about 2,000 beds in our pipeline that should be coming online in small chunks through the end of May. This is cutting it a little close, but we should be alright.⁷⁹

Despite these reassurances, by the end of May, ORR was at 93 percent of its capacity.⁸⁰ In June, as ORR neared full capacity, the Department finally took steps to increase operational staff on weekends to process the uptick in separations.⁸¹ At the time, ORR had more than 11,000 children in its custody—1,700 of which had been identified as separated.⁸²

C. Increased Scrutiny Reveals Chaos and Leads to Agency Infighting

By June, news organizations began reporting on the family separation policy. NBC News recounted the experience of a Michigan foster mother who hosted a number of unaccompanied children separated from their parents.⁸³ She described a 10-year-old boy who woke up screaming in the middle of the night and a 9-year old boy who arrived sick and anxious and could barely eat or sleep for weeks after being separated from his father.⁸⁴ In mid-June, the American Psychological Association warned of the severe psychological harm that both children and parents experience as a result of separation.⁸⁵

As scrutiny mounted from all corners, senior government officials continued to struggle with tracking and reunifying separated families. On June 14, CBP Commissioner McAleenan complained to ORR Director Lloyd that even when the parent of a separated child was identified, ORR took “days to get [the] child to the phone to connect to [their] parent.”⁸⁶ In response, Lloyd redirected blame, suggesting that unless DHS promptly provided parent information upon the child’s transfer to ORR custody, facilitating parent-child communications would take time. According to Lloyd, if “the parent is relying on our call center to locate kids, this is going to be more difficult, because we can’t just give out UAC information.”⁸⁷

These struggles extended beyond agency leadership down to lower level contractors and front line CBP agents. For example, on June 2, an HHS contractor emailed ORR Director Lloyd expressing frustration with “the policy decision to separate kids from their families as a deterrent,” noting that there were “a bunch of tender age girls pending designation over 72 hours.”⁸⁸ Similarly, CBP agents struggled to comply with an order from a magistrate judge in the Southern District of Texas requiring the regular submission to the court of lists of migrant children separated from their parents.⁸⁹ When the judge threatened to hold CBP in contempt for failure to comply, internal documents show that CBP agents were concerned that they could not

V. June 2018 – September 2018: The “End” of Family Separation and Continued Struggle to Reunify Families

On June 20, 2018, as widespread bi-partisan condemnation of the Trump Administration’s actions mounted,⁹¹ President Trump signed Executive Order 13841, “Affording Congress an Opportunity to Address Family Separation,” directing CBP to maintain “family units” and effectively ending the family separation policy.⁹² Again, the announcement was made without prior notice to implementing agencies.

Immediately upon issuance of the President’s order, CBP guidance directed agents to suspend the referral of single parents arriving with children for prosecution for immigration-related violations.⁹³ With respect to two-parent family units, agents were instructed to “consider referring one of the adults for appropriate prosecution.”⁹⁴ This was initially interpreted by the El Centro Sector Chief to prioritize “prosecut[ion] of an adult male.”⁹⁵ However, this guidance was quickly reversed. Later that same day, CBP advised sectors to deprioritize the prosecution of all family units.⁹⁶

A. Executive Order Leads to Increased Scrutiny of DHS Reunification Efforts

The Executive Order further exposed the operational challenges resulting from the family separation policy. The plan for reunification required ICE and ORR—the two agencies responsible for reunifying parents and children—to work together to match the separated child in

ORR custody with a parent who was generally in ICE custody. However, internal documents reveal that ICE did not understand the complexities of the process. For example, three days after the Executive Order was issued, Matthew Albence, then-Executive Associate Director of ICE Enforcement and Removal Operations (ERO), emailed ORR expressing confusion over the difficulties in linking parents and separated children: “[a]re you saying you don’t have the alien number for any parents? This information should already be in the UAC portal.”⁹⁷ By this time, however, ORR officials were well aware of the challenges of reunifying separated families.⁹⁸ ORR officials replied, “[n]o, we do not have any linkages from parents to UACs... we have a list parent alien numbers [sic] but no way to link them to children.”⁹⁹

Facing growing public outcry and without a comprehensive plan to reunify families, ORR Director Lloyd attempted to triage cases, telling his staff in an internal email to compile all press stories related to separated parents and children, and expressing his determination to try to resolve those cases first.¹⁰⁰

B. Courts Force Acceleration of Reunification Efforts

On June 26, 2018, the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of California issued a preliminary injunction prohibiting DHS from detaining parents and children separately and requiring the government to reunite families, unless the child was in danger or the parent declined to reunite with the child.¹⁰¹ The court set deadlines of July 10, 2018 to reunite children ages four and under, and July 26, 2018 to reunite children ages five to seventeen.¹⁰²

The District Court’s preliminary injunction meant that ICE had just a few weeks to identify which adults in its custody had been separated from their children and work with ORR to match such individuals with their children. However, internal documents make it clear that immediately prior to the issuance of the injunction, neither ICE nor ORR had yet to develop a plan for reunification. On June 23, 2018, ORR Director Lloyd emailed ICE ERO, stating, “[j]ust writing to find out if you have any intel on ICE plans for the separated parents. Give me a call when you get a chance.”¹⁰³

Upon issuance of the injunction, reunification efforts began in earnest. Commander White, who was placed in charge of ORR reunification efforts, started by compiling basic information that ORR did not previously collect, including the number of separated children that remained out of contact with a parent.¹⁰⁴ Authorizing additional overtime for staff to focus on reunification, ORR noted that many staff were already working 60 to 80 hours a week and that “folks are going to be fried after this, way beyond burnout.”¹⁰⁵ In addition, HHS began developing a policy to verify parent-child relationships through DNA testing.¹⁰⁶

While HHS and ICE attempted to comply with the executive order and preliminary injunction, internal documents reveal that CBP Commissioner McAleenan was looking for ways to continue family separations. On June 29, 2018, CBP headquarters asked all Border Patrol chiefs and deputies to identify how many parents could be prosecuted and quickly reunited with their children in CBP custody each day.¹⁰⁷ In other words, CBP thought it could technically comply with the court order by separating families for only short periods of time.

C. Reunification Efforts Devolve into Chaos

Despite their ongoing efforts to reunite families, ICE and ORR missed the court’s July 10 deadline to reunify all children under the age of five.¹⁰⁸ By July 19, HHS identified 2,551 separated children covered by the court order. Due to a lack of planning and preparedness, the reunification process was chaotic and disorganized. In some cases, children were transported to the wrong location, where they waited on buses for hours only to be returned to the ORR facility later that evening. In many cases, reunification efforts were slowed by ICE officials’ decisions to question parents about issues unrelated to reunification. Internal emails detail these and other problems that unfolded as reunification efforts continued:

- On July 10, 2018, an ORR New York field specialist identified a child approved to travel for reunification. However, upon arrival at the reunification site, DHS informed the specialist that the child’s parent was not there and would not arrive until the following day.¹⁰⁹
- On July 16, a total of 37 “tender age” children were approved for reunification with their parents at an ICE detention facility. However, after waiting at the facility for eight hours, ICE still had not processed any of the parents.¹¹⁰ ORR took the children back to the bus where they continued to wait until very late in the evening.¹¹¹ Noting that there were multiple buses still waiting in the parking lot, an ORR staffer stated, “[t]here has to be a better process. I hope as we move forward there can be adjustments so that we don’t put tender age kids in this position.”¹¹²

- On July 17, an ORR field supervisor wrote to ORR Deputy Director Hayes, Commander White, and ORR Director Lloyd, expressing concern that DHS was impeding reunification efforts by interviewing parents about issues unrelated to reunification:

Based on information that we received yesterday on a phone briefing with DHS and what staff are reporting on the ground, DHS is re-interviewing adult parents about their legal case and other issues not related to reunification. It appears that the DHS interview process is including [sic] parent interview regarding credible fear etc. which really is unrelated to parent/family reunification. Is there any way we can ask them to put their parents’ interviews about non-reunification aside until after the parent and child are reunified?¹¹³

- On July 18, Executive Associate ERO Director Albence emailed Robert Kadlec, Assistant Secretary of Health and Human Services for Preparedness and Response, flagging complications in transferring UACs from ORR facilities to ICE facilities for reunification. Mr. Albence was told these complications were due to ORR transportation contract issues and offered to provide ICE contractors to assist. This appeared to surprise Mr. Kadlec, who forwarded the email to Lloyd asking: “Scott do you need help?!? We can’t fail because you guys ain’t asking for assistance.” In response, Mr. Lloyd claims that delays are due to the need to complete interviews. Mr. Kadlec counters that hundreds of interviews have been completed and those cases are still being delayed. Others agree and insist the issue is transportation. There is no resolution within this email chain.¹¹⁴
- On July 18, according to an HHS field worker in New Mexico, a shuttle of four children from Canutillo, Texas arrived at an ICE facility for reunification at 2:00 PM, and a second shuttle of four children from Phoenix, Arizona arrived around 2:30 PM. ICE staff informed the shuttle drivers that: (1) the parents for the Canutillo shuttle would not arrive until after 6:00 PM and the children would need to wait in the shuttle; and (2) only one of the four children arriving from Phoenix had parents at the facility and the rest would need to wait in the shuttle until their parents arrived. By 5:00 PM, ICE officers instructed both shuttles to return to their sites and wait until further notice. This email chain also notes that an ORR staffer received a phone call “about a child that had flown in and another that drove close to 6 hours to get to the facilities to then be told that their parent is not there.”¹¹⁵

- On July 19, HHS provider Southwest Key in El Paso emailed ORR Senior Federal Field Specialist Supervisor James De La Cruz after 11:00 PM, explaining that a DHS official in El Paso stated that reunifications were being suspended, that children could not stay onsite, and that staff were leaving for the night. As a result, 20 children were driven back to the ORR facility.¹¹⁶ The next day, the same Southwest Key employee informed ORR that ICE claimed it was running out of bed space for parents scheduled for reunification, and when bed space runs out, ICE will halt the reunification process. A DHS official also predicted reunifications would be suspended early on July 20 due to limited bed space and estimated that as many as 50 children would be unable to reunite with their parents that day.¹¹⁷

This poor planning and lack of coordination significantly hampered the government’s ability to reunite parents and their children. An ORR report revealed that as a result of these issues, in July 2018, close to 1,700 of the roughly 2,500 migrant children in ORR custody remained separated from their parents.¹¹⁸ Commander White attempted to address the reunification delays, stating: “[e]ffective today, children who have arrived for reunification should NOT be turned away from the detention center and sent to hotels without prior approval from [the HHS Incident Management Team]...”¹¹⁹

By August 1, 2018, nearly 2,000 out of more than 2,600 children that were ultimately identified in the Ms. L lawsuit were reunited with their parents.¹²⁰ Reunification of the roughly 600 children who remained separated from their parents was complicated by the fact that many of the parents had already been removed to their home countries. Meanwhile, Administration officials worked to cover up problems with the reunification process. For example, ORR Director Lloyd reportedly told HHS staff to stop keeping a spreadsheet that tracked separated children.¹²¹ In an internal email, rather than denying he told HHS to stop tracking separated children, Lloyd instead claimed the reporter “spun an inaccurate narrative.”¹²²

Over the next few months, ORR and DHS continued its attempts to reunify families. But because of the Administration’s repeated missteps detailed above—including the insistence on rolling out the policy nationwide without first incorporating lessons learned from the pilot program, the secrecy and lack of cross-agency communication, and the conscious disregard of the welfare of affected families—those efforts continue to be hampered even today. As a result, some children—particularly those whose parents were deported before reunification could take place—remain separated from their parents.

VI. Conclusion

While we may never know the full extent of the damage inflicted by the Trump Administration’s family separation policy, it is evident—as a result of this investigation and public reporting—that it was driven by an Administration that was willfully blind to its cruelty and determined to go to unthinkable extremes to deliver on political promises and stop migrants fleeing violence from seeking protection in the United States. As illustrated in this report:

- Within weeks of President Trump’s inauguration, the Administration began formulating a plan to separate parents from their children as a means to deter migration.
- Before a formal policy had even been developed, the Administration was accelerating family separations. By March 2017, the number of separated children transferred to ORR custody had increased by nearly 900 percent, as compared to November 2016.
- In July 2017, without warning, the Administration implemented a family separation pilot program in the El Paso Border Patrol Sector. The pilot program lasted five months and resulted in hundreds of additional children being taken from their parents and placed in ORR custody.
- During the pilot program, the Administration discovered that it was unable to track separated family members in a way that would facilitate eventual reunification.
- Knowing this, and without doing anything to address the tracking systems employed by deferral agencies, the Administration chose to expand the policy nationwide in May 2018.
- To make matters worse, the Administration failed to provide advance notice of the policy to front line agents and officers, which caused unnecessary chaos and inconsistent implementation of the policy across border sectors.

¹²² Email from Scott Lloyd to Evelyn Stauffer, Press Secretary, Dep’t of Health and Human Services (Nov. 19, 2018), at Appendix AY.

- When judicial intervention and political pressure eventually resulted in the end of the policy, the lack of interagency cooperation and preparedness was laid bare by the inability of the Administration to quickly reunite separated parents and children.

As a result of this dark chapter in our nation's history, hundreds of migrant children may never be reunited with their parents.

Despite considerable stonewalling by Administration officials, Judiciary Committee Members and staff have pushed relentlessly to obtain data and conduct much needed oversight of the agencies responsible for the family separation policy. This report details the Committee's findings thus far. We remain committed to holding the Trump Administration accountable and continuing to shed light on this dark moment in our country's history.

On January 12, 2018, CRCL received an email from [REDACTED] of the Lutheran Immigration and Refugee Service addressed to [REDACTED] and John Roth regarding family separation of asylum seekers at the border for the purpose of criminal prosecutions. The correspondence includes examples of family separation cases that include due process concern. Specifically separating parents from children so that criminal prosecutions under 1325 or 1326 can occur, impediments to access to legal representation, and verbal abuse including attempts to persuade parents from seeking asylum. LIRS alleges that in each case, there are gaps in information due to the fact that ORR does not access to information from CBP such as the child's I-213, Form 93, and other information about the child's parents. Parents of UAC's who are referred to USMS or ICE custody, often face delayed court dates which makes it difficult for ICE to arrange for reunification prior to the parent's departure. LIRS provides four cases that demonstrate obstacles that impede the children's access to due process and in effect thwart the child's ability to seek legal relief. Kevin,

It was good speaking with you yesterday. Per your request, I am writing to provide details regarding the increase in referrals of UAC resulting from separation of children from parents in FMUA.

While a small number of referrals each month have been separation cases, generally as a result of criminal apprehensions of parents accompanying UAC, ORR has noticed a significant increase in recent months—both in raw numbers, and in particular as a proportion of total referrals. (See chart below.)

In the attached spreadsheet, details including specific names and A#s for separation referrals received in September and October may be found. This includes data on referring sectors. See "September" and "October" tabs. The spreadsheet is password-protected due to containing PII. password for the spreadsheet will follow in separate email.

As you can see from that data, minors separated by DHS from FMUA and declared UAC are often TAs (12 years of age and younger) and in a significant number of cases are very young (ages 1-5). These UAC require specialized licensed beds different under state licensure law from most licensed UAC beds, and the numbers of these very young UAC resulting from separations has on some dates resulted in shortfalls of available beds licensed for very young TAs. UAC referred through separation generally have longer length of care in ORR custody than other UAC.

If there are additional questions, please don't hesitate to let me know.

FYSA –

During the past several weeks the CFS and FFS have been working with intakes staff to collect information about UAC that were previously referred to ORR by DHS. As of last Friday the number of UAC separated from a family member and referred to ORR by DHS was 625 cases.

This number of 625 cases was established in steps. The first step was to identify cases that DHS referred to ORR Intakes during the initial intake referral process and data was captured in the Portals. There were slightly over 500 such cases. To reconcile our numbers Intakes went through SIRS to find additional cases. An additional 100 cases were located through the process of asking CFS to enter cases in our SharePoint data base and also omit any duplicated cases. We will make one more effort to reconcile numbers and we estimate that effort to occur in the next 2 weeks. At that time we will ask care provider programs to report any cases that were not properly submitted per ORR's SIR reporting policy and procedure for UAC separated from a parent or legal guardian.

Please find some very basic descriptive statistics regarding UAC separated from parents or guardians for FY 2017.

By Month of Referral

Month	#	%
October	149	24%
November	121	19%
December	136	22%
January	111	18%

February	104	17%
March*	4

*Excluding March

By Country of Origin

Country	%
Guatemala	63%
Honduras	18%
El Salvador	9%
Mexico	5%
Other	5%

By Age:

Age Range	%
0 – 8 Years	36%
0 – 10 Years	48%
0 – 13 years	60%

In addition to the above information our SharePoint database also collects information that will be useful as we work with DHS ERO and CBP to locate parents of minors who were separated from their parents. Other data points that we are collecting are:

- Initial location of apprehension\family separation
- Source making the cases known to ORR
- Specific reason for separation of each UAC from his or her parent(s)
- Arresting agency, E.g. ERO, USBP, OFO
- Shelter Location
- Month that UAC are discharged from ORR care
- LOS per each case
- Location of Detention for Parent of Separated Minors
- Verification of contact between each separated minor and the parent
- Case outcome for each UAC.

We also recognize that some of the questions we are collecting can be more substantively accurate if we make improved changes. E.g. we will be requesting DHS to provide us with the specific US Code, State Family Code, or other statutory citation for charges being made against a parent vs. a statement with no statutory reference.

Last, DHS ERO and USBP have informed us that they are willing to assist us in linking separated children to their parents. This will be especially important prior to a parent's removal from the US.

More information will be provided as progress is made to connect UAC with their parents.

Jim replied with the following:

As of yesterday they identified 856 referrals.

Of those:

219 or 26% of the population are 5 years old or younger

354 or 41% of the population are 8 years old or younger

In March they found that approximately 360 of the then number of 725 had been discharged.

We've asked him if they can also provide the approximate number of the 856 that they identified as non-parents.

Works for me. I made some edits for context and style. Are we okay with "at least 700"? And "since October 2017", correct? Any other concerns?

The Office of Refugee Resettlement (ORR) at HHS' Administration for Children and Families is not informed by federal partners if a particular child referred to our care has been separated, or the whereabouts of the parents.

In pursuing the best interests of the child, ORR and our service providers work diligently to identify if each child was separated and to locate the parents. An informal working tally by ORR field staff suggests at least 700 of these situations were resolved since October 2017. This does not reflect the actual number of family separations, data held by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security."

So our draft response; I don't have a preference as to whether we name a number:

The Department of Homeland Security does not inform the Office of Refugee Resettlement that a particular referred child was separated or the whereabouts of the parents.

In pursuing the best interests of the child, ORR and its service providers work diligently to identify if each child was separated and to locate the parents. While ORR does not receive information or data on DHS actions, an informal working tally suggests that ORR has worked to resolve several hundred [700] of these types of cases in the past year. This does not reflect the actual number of family separations, a number that only DHS would know.

From a programmatic perspective, since DHS is now using ORR working data to describe their actions, I don't have a problem with using the last two paragraphs below, or even more specifically saying that the number exceeded 700 instead of "several hundred". On Jallyn's behalf, I can check with the program to get the actual number of cases they shared with DHS.

Maybe add another sentence something like this... "This does not reflect the actual number of family separations, a number that only DHS would know"

ORR field staff numbers are ORR numbers on UACs, even if they aren't in the form of an official report. Especially when they are shared with DHS.

ORR, would you proposed revised language, including numbers/data, based on what we now know? We need to amend our New York Times statement ASAP.

Yes. It may become known through the ordinary course of work in ORR. Then ORR reaches out to DHS to try to find the parents and establish communication.

As to your second question, It looks like the field found around a hundred a month. Yes it is an increase. Before 2017, family separation happened, but not often.

For your background:

I think that DHS shared with the press the number from the working list that our field recently compiled and shared with DHS field (a working field document to try to get a handle on this problem- not an official count). It is likely not a complete or accurate list/number. It grew to over 700. So the actual number of separations is probably larger.

Thanks. Also adding Scott. (Scott, this is about the New York Times request on family separation/UAC data.)

What is unclear to me is: if DHS does not share family separation UAC data with ORR, then where would any such data come from?

In other words, is ORR building its own data set based on what we learn upon searching for a parent?

And, if so, then shouldn't we be presenting that data? (Especially if we are alleging the number of 700 this fiscal year is incorrect.)

Hi Victoria-

Sounds like DHS shared some ORR data (that does not represent the full picture of DHS actions). It also sounds like a symptom of breakdown in interagency communication.

You could develop something like this, although I don't know if it will clear:

The Department of Homeland Security does not inform the Office of Refugee Resettlement that a particular referred child was separated or the whereabouts of the parents. In pursuing the best interests of the child, ORR and its service providers work diligently to identify if each child was separated and to locate the parents. Importance: High

Good evening, Jallyn and Tricia:

In response to the New York Times reporter inquiry earlier this week: "We are preparing to publish a story based on ORR data provided to us by Homeland Security officials on background that shows that more than 700 children have been separated from their parents since last October. According to our sources, the data shows that about half of the children are under 10 years old and more than a quarter are under five years old. The story will also say that ORR-contracted shelters have struggled increasingly to track down the parents of children who show up at their facilities after being separated --so the children effectively become lost in the system until ORR contractors can track the parents down. We wanted to run this by you to ensure that HHS/ORR doesn't dispute any of our findings or care to add context or further comment."

ACF provided the following response to The New York Times this morning:

"We cannot verify the numbers because they do not come from the Office of Refugee Resettlement at HHS' Administration for Children and Families. We understand that DHS has provided you with a statement and is disputing the accuracy of the numbers."

The NYT reporter is insisting that the numbers are from ORR:

"The numbers do in fact come from HHS/ORR. Please send this back to your superiors for a response that actually addresses our findings. The numbers do not come from DHS. We understand that DHS is disputing the accuracy of the numbers based on their own data, but that is an entirely different dataset."

And to be clear, the validity of the data we are using has been confirmed for us on background by HHS officials who are personally familiar with it."

Can ORR provide any insight as to where she may have gotten the data or why she would be so insistent the data is from ORR? Particularly as she says "validity of the data we are using has been confirmed for us on background by HHS officials who are personally familiar with it"?

I will be staying after hours until approx. 6:45 p.m. and look forward to hearing back on from you on a proposed response; please ensure that Scott has approved any response we will provide.

Please let me know if you have any questions; happy to discuss by phone or come upstairs in person – am here to assist in this as needed.,

Thank you,

On Background –

- The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) is legally required to accept placement for any child meeting the definition of an unaccompanied alien child (UAC) as defined under 6 U.S.C. §279(g)(2) referred following the provisions of 8 U.S.C. §§1232(b)(1)-(3).
- In general, consistent with relevant federal law, release from ORR custody may not occur until ORR has identified, evaluated and approved an appropriate sponsor in accordance with Section 2 of the Unaccompanied Alien Children (UAC) Policy Guide. ORR's first preference for placement would be with a parent or legal guardian of the child.
- All potential sponsors for UAC are required to undergo background checks and complete a sponsor assessment process that identifies risk factors and other potential safety concerns. As a part of the release process, all potential sponsors must undergo a criminal public records check and a sex offender registry check. ORR also conducts background checks on adult household members and individuals identified in a potential sponsor's care plan. Additionally, a fingerprint background check is required if there is a documented risk to the safety of the minor, the minor is especially vulnerable, the case is referred for a home study, any other special concern is identified, or the sponsor is not the child's parent or legal guardian. Home studies are also required in certain instances.
- ORR has cared for more than 175,000 UAC since inheriting the program in 2003, incorporating child welfare values as well as the principles and provisions established by the Flores Agreement in 1997; the Homeland Security Act of 2002; and the William Wilberforce Trafficking Victims Protection Reauthorization Act (TVPPRA) of 2008.
- Parents attempting to determine if their child is in our custody should contact the ORR National Call Center at 1-800-203-7001. The ORR National Call Center has numerous resources available for children, parents, and sponsors.
- Outside entities, attorneys, or other individuals seeking UAC case file information must make a request to ORR under the appropriate policies and procedures.

Victoria

Disregard my previous email regarding Zone 12. This is the new guidance.

Beginning at 6:00 AM on Monday, May 7th, the El Centro Sector will begin the “Zero Tolerance” effort as directed by Attorney General Sessions and U.S. Border Patrol Headquarters. Beginning Monday, all adult apprehensions will be processed for prosecution. All first time apprehensions will be prosecuted for 8 USC 1325 and all recidivists will be prosecuted for 8 USC 1326.

- All first time apprehensions can be processed as Expedited Removal.
- All prosecutions require a video recorded sworn statement memorializing their entry and apprehension.
 - Ensure proper charge is documented on video
- All pertinent timelines (6 hour rule, 0400 booking @ ICJ) still apply

The “Zero Tolerance” effort includes the below:

1. All adult aliens (with criminal history)
2. All adult aliens (with smuggling activity)
3. Single adult aliens and adult aliens accompanying children (non-contiguous country/OTM)
4. Single adult aliens (contiguous country/Mexico & Canada)
5. Adult aliens accompanying children (contiguous country/Mexico & Canada)

Humanitarian considerations and policies remain in place. Discretion on appropriate referrals for sensitive cases, including but not limited to adults who are traveling with tender age children, remains with the Chief Patrol Agent or their designees with their chain of command.

Please be prepared for updated information and guidance throughout the weekend.

Subject: Prosecution Initiative

On April 6, 2018, Attorney General Sessions issued a mandate to the U.S. Department of Justice to prosecute "all offenses referred for prosecution under section 1325(a)." At this time, the El Centro Sector and the U.S. Attorney's Office are beginning a prosecution initiative to move toward the "Zero Tolerance" effort in a controlled and steady process.

Beginning immediately, the El Centro Sector will begin prosecuting all adults apprehended in Zone 12 who have at least one prior removal (Admin, IJ, or ER). These apprehensions are to be prioritized for processing in order to meet all required time lines such as same day arraignments if apprehended prior to 0600 and screening for TB. Meeting the 4:00 AM book in window at the Imperial County Jail (ICJ) will prevent extra manpower assigned to transport subjects to the local hospitals to be screened for TB. Please do not wait until 3:00 AM to transport to ICJ.

In addition to the Zone 12 apprehensions, the El Centro Sector is to begin prosecuting subjects who would classify as 8 USC 1326 prosecutions, specifically those with excessive immigration history and/or criminal history.

In order for prosecution efforts to be successful, the subjects should be notified why they are being prosecuted. We are targeting Zone 12 due to the dangers of the New River and the challenges it presents to our sector. Subjects utilizing the New River put our agents in harm's way due to the toxic levels of the river and to the everyday dangers of patrolling a waterway. These subjects are being prosecuted for a) entering illegally and b) utilizing the river to avoid detection/apprehension.

Also, the USAO has given us the green light to prosecute any 1 on 2 or 1 on 3 smuggling cases apprehended at the checkpoint. Anything more than that will still require a special approval.

Please ensure timely notification of all pending prosecutions is made to the Prosecutions Department.

Any questions or concerns, please let us know.

To all,

We started prosecutorial referrals for all amenable adults, to include adults that are part of family units. If a FAMU child is 5 YOA or older we will separate the FAMU and prosecute the adult. If the child has mental or physical impediments, we will evaluate them on a case-by-case basis. These FAMU cases need to be referred to a member of management for a final decision.

Prosecution Priorities in the following order:

1. All adult aliens (with or without criminal history)
2. All adult aliens (with smuggling activity)
3. Single adult aliens and adults aliens accompanying children (non-contiguous country/OTM)
4. Single adult aliens (contiguous country/Mexico and Canada)
5. Adult aliens accompanying children (contiguous country/Mexico and Canada)

For subjects who enter in a different jurisdiction with the exception of Laredo crossers, prosecution for 1325 will be declined due to jurisdictional authority limitations. For example if Rocksprings encounters a subject who entered through RGV (Southern District) we can't legally prosecute for 8 USC 1325. Other charges might be pursued depending on subject's immigration/criminal history.

Also with this new guidance, Carrizo Station will start referring all adults amenable for 1325 who entered in the Southern District to Laredo Prosecutions for case acceptance. This will be done in the same manner it's currently done with 1326 cases (email with pertinent information). 1326 LRT crossers will continue to be referred in the same manner.

Chiefs, Deputies,

Please see the below guidance for immediate dissemination and implementation.

Please reply to Deputy Division Chief Richard Hudson and I that you have received and understand.

Please feel free to call if you have any questions.

June 20, 2018 Executive Order – Updated Operational Guidance:

1. Immediately suspend Section 1325 prosecution of adults in family units with only one parent/adult and maintain family unity, unless: (i) there is a concern that detention of an alien child, with the child's alien parent would pose a risk to the child's welfare; or (ii) there is an outstanding criminal background or warrant (beyond a simple Section 1325 violation). Sectors should consider circumstances of the apprehension and exercise discretion.
2. For the immediate term, process single adult family units apprehended crossing the border illegally for transfer to ICE as Expedited Removal cases.
3. For multi-parent/adult family units, consider referring one of the adults for appropriate prosecution under Section 1325, consistent with USBP consequence delivery practices prior to May 5, 2018, and applying Sector discretion considering child welfare, ICE detention space, and related factors. Resulting single adult family units will be transferred to ICE as Expedited Removal cases.
4. Take all appropriate, immediate measures to reunify separated children who remain in CBP custody with adult family members referred for prosecution when the adult is expected to return to CBP custody within a reasonable time period, after prosecution/conviction. This will primarily apply in Sectors where Magistrates are issuing time served decisions in an expedited manner, such as RGV and LRT. Use discretion to balance the decision of whether to place the child with HHS pending later reunification with the adult, versus holding the child in Border Patrol custody, considering both the exceptional circumstances provision in the TVIRA, and the welfare of the child in CBP custody.
5. Continue to increase Section 1325 prosecutions of single adults crossing the border illegally. Related adults traveling together without children should also continue to be presented for prosecution for 1325, when warranted.

V/r,
Brian

ALCON:

Effective immediately the following actions are to be implemented/acted upon:

1. Prioritize single adult males for Zero Tolerance prosecutions.
2. All efforts will be made to keep Family Units together. In the case of a multiple adult family unit, more than one parent is accompanying the family, the preference is to prosecute the adult male.
3. In cases involving a single adult parent within a Family Unit that has an extensive criminal history, or that may warrant prosecution, contact our Sector Prosecution for consultation with local U.S. Attorney's Office and CBP counsel regarding the pursuit of prosecution. We will treat these on a case by case basis depending on the situation.

Further guidance is forthcoming from HQ. In the interim please ensure that all field commanders and Supervisors are made aware and act accordingly. If you have any further questions, please contact Acting ACPA [REDACTED] at [REDACTED]

ALCON,

The CBP Transportation, Escort, Detention, and Search (TEDS) policy states in part that "CBP will maintain family unity to the greatest extent operationally feasible, absent a legal requirement or an articulable safety or security concern that requires separation." USBP complies with this policy and strives to maintain the family unity of aliens while in our custody however, there are numerous situations that would require the separation of family units such as prosecution of the parent or legal guardian.

USBP will ensure all family units affected by separation are provided with meaningful information and contact numbers that will assist with reunification with their family when they leave USBP custody. Effective immediately, all sectors shall begin dispersing the attached separation notice to all family members that resulted in a separation.

ALCON,

Please pass this information to your supervisory personnel for immediate implementation.

Until further notice, we will not separate children from their parents simply to prosecute for 1325 if they are 12 years old or younger.

If you have any family units currently in custody that are being separated due to previous guidance, process them as a family unit and request placement as such.

For family units where the parent is a felon, we will evaluate on a case by case basis and require staff notification.

The updated guidance above supersedes previous guidance for tender age children being 5 years old or younger.

Please acknowledge receipt.

Excellent. Does the 848 include the "no's"? This rate has been about 10%-- parents who don't want their kids. In either case we've manifested 722 already so it sounds like we're in a good place to have much of any delta reduced today. We will let ASPR know if we need any assistance with manifests or transportation.

I think it might be helpful to walk through the numbers because it appears there is some confusion. There were 848 parents who were interviewed and were ready to be reunited. 364 have been reunited leaving 484 that have not. These folks are ready to be reunited I am told. We have fewer than 300 parents in ICE custody left to be interviewed. For the last few days we have had more than 300 people ready to be reunified each day. Yesterday, we had in total 734 interviewed and cleared for reunification minus the 236 reunifications leaving us with 498 parents ready for reunification. On Tuesday, 496 parents had been interviewed and cleared minus the 139 that had been reunified, leaving us with 357 ready for reunification that day.

We are happy to provide more resources to help manifest kids so we can get this done. In my view anything short of 200-250 reunifications today will be considered a failure.

Hey Bob: Too late to call, but just wanted to touch base. It's been relayed to me that we're having issues with getting the UAC to our facilities for reunification. I know we have 180 parents ready to go in Port Isabel, and 60 to go in Phoenix, but we're waiting on the UAC.

I'm told that it has to do with your transportation contractors. If you are having issues, we are more than willing to let our transportation contractors assist. I'm afraid this process is getting bogged down and we are going to unnecessarily push up against the deadline. Please let me know what we can do to accelerate the process.

Also, want to give kudos to Commander White and Chris for their performance this afternoon at the briefings. Both were outstanding.

Best,

Matt

Thank you for the response. I am working with Mr. Gaudian to figure this out, but in short, no, we do not have any linkages from parents to UAC, save for a handful in ACF's UAC portal (n of about 60). We have a list of parent alien numbers but no way to link them to children.

I think we can stand down on this for now while we sort through what Mr. Gaudian has for us.

Thanks,

Tom:

Are you saying you don't have the alien number for any of the parents? This information should already be in the UAC portal. While I understand that information may be lacking in some instances, for those that you have, it wouldn't be efficient for us to try to run all of these.

Further, the type and volume of what you are requesting is not something that we are going to be able to complete in a rapid fashion, and in fact, we may not have some of it.

I think the best approach initially-especially if you plan on sending people to the detention sites on Monday, is to give us a spreadsheet of the list of already known UAC/Parent A#. We can then provide you the detention locations of those parents from that.

For those in which you don't have a UAC matched w the parent, if you can put them on a separate spreadsheet, we will try to match w the parent, and provide you the detention locations of them as well.

Adding a few of my team.

Subject: UAC Data Request - Parent/Legal Guardian Link

Good afternoon,

Attached are two spreadsheets:

1. UAC_Alien_Numbers23JUN. This is our list of alien numbers of 2,219 unaccompanied alien children (UAC) since 06MAY
2. UAC_ICE_Request23JUN. This spreadsheet is a template for your completion. This spreadsheet contains two tabs:
 - o Parent or Legal Guardian information tab
 - o Relationship tab

Please use the spreadsheet with the list of UAC alien numbers to complete the two tabs on the second spreadsheet. There are some examples of the information that we are looking for populated on the spreadsheet.

On the parent or legal guardian information tab, we need for every parent or legal guardian separated from a child: their alien number, current status (detained, removed, released/notice to appear, alternative to detention), detention center (if applicable), date released (if applicable), city, state, and country (final destination if not detention center), and case manager information.

On the relationship tab, for each UAC alien number that we provided, we need an alien number, name and relationship type for his/her legal guardian (mother, father, or legal guardian), as well as date of last contact between the parent/legal guardian and UAC. If a UAC has more than one parent/legal guardian, provide information on both.

Thank you for your assistance.

Dear Provider-

In your care are child(ren) aged 0-4 (plus any siblings of those listed children) who are scheduled for discharge from HHS/ORR and transfer to DHS/ICE on Tuesday July 10, 2018 at 1:00PM Eastern. At that time, the child(ren) are scheduled to be reunified with their parents.

- If you add a sibling, immediately reply and email UAC-Reunion@hhs.gov to notify us of the names and A #s of the sibling.

DO WE SUBMIT THE CASE FOR APPROVAL?

Yes. IMMEDIATELY submit the children for approval. Use the normal submission procedure.

DOCUMENTATION OF TRANSFER TO DHS: You will be provided additional paperwork to present to the ICE personnel at the designated location. This will be transmitted to you by Tuesday morning.

HOW DO WE COMMUNICATE ON TUESDAY?

You will communicate with HHS/ORR headquarters throughout the transportation of the child on Tuesday. Headquarters will want to know in real-time 1) when you depart from your facility/program, 2) when you transfer custody to DHS, and 3) when you document the release in the UAC Portal. You will email these milestones in real-time to UAC-Reunion@hhs.gov.

If you have any significant problems throughout the transfer (such as protesters blocking the transport), the 24 hour phone line at HHS/ORR headquarters is 202-503-7935.

HOW DO WE DOCUMENT THE DISCHARGE IN THE UAC PORTAL?

When you discharge the children in the UAC Portal, in the Discharge Notification page, for Discharge Type, select "Other." In the "Proof of Relationship" box enter "Release due to Court Order following family separation" in addition to other comments that you enter in that box. Otherwise, document this discharge as you would normally in the UAC Portal

WHAT DO WE DOCUMENT AFTER THE DISCHARGE?

Upload any additional documentation you may receive to the UAC Portal.

As you know, the reunification of children with their parents is critically important. It is essential, for the safe reunification of children with parents, that this process and timeline be strictly followed.

Thank you.

Subject: Separated Children

Good evening,

I wanted to make you aware of some of the challenges we are facing as we implement the reunification process for separated children. The urgency to initiate the transport of the children is not reflected when we arrive at the detention facilities. Today, we received instructions to initiate reunification for 37 tender age children from Harlingen at the detention facility in Los Fresnos. After receiving authorization to transport the kids they were driven to the facility that is approximately 30 minutes away and arrived at 14:30. The children were initially taken into the facility, but were then returned to the van as the facility was still working on paperwork. The children were brought back in later in the evening, but returned to the vans because it was too cold in the facility and they were still not ready to be processed in. It is 22:30 and they are still in the vans and not one of our children has been checked in. In addition, there are other vans with kids from other facilities that are waiting as well. There has to be a better process. I hope as we move forward there can be adjustments so that we don't put tender age kids in this position. If coordinated properly, we can be scheduled for a particular intake time so there are not multiple programs arriving at the same time and overwhelming the intake process at the facility. Any attention you can provide or elevate regarding this issue is appreciated.

Subject: Reunification of UAC with Parents

Jonathan,

FYSA I recently spoke to our FFS at Port Isabel. She reports UAC still there pending interview since yesterday noon. The number of kids still being processed is 11. This reunification process is taking much longer than it should.

Based on information that we received yesterday on a phone briefing with DHS and what staff are reporting on the ground DHS is re-interviewing adult parents about their legal case and other issues not related to reunification. It appears that the DHS interview process is including parent interview regarding credible fear etc. which really is unrelated to parent\family reunification.

Is there any way we can ask them to put their parents interview about non-reunification aside until after the parent and child are reunified?

Jonathan and Jallyn,

We are continuing to have issues at the ICE facilities with delays and now parents not even being at the facilities until hours and in some cases until the next day.

Please see below an email from one of our programs. I also received a phone call tonight about a child that had flown in and another that drove close to 6 hours to get to the facilities to then be told that their parent is not there. We had to find local placement for those kids (in one of our shelters) since ICE officers told them the parents are out of state and will not arrive until the next day. I will have more details tomorrow on those cases.

Can we please address this with ICE tomorrow?

Good afternoon Mr. Gonzalez,

There have been several changes in plan to transports occurring in the area for today. We assisted with shuttling of two groupings of minors this morning, one arriving at 9:10 am and another at 9:40 am. Those minors were reunified in a time frame of about 3 ½ hours and the staff returned without a hitch. During that time we were advised that we would need to have 4 Canutillo minors at the camp at 2 pm. We were subsequently to assist with shuttling a group of 4 minors from Phoenix arriving at 2:40 pm. Sack lunches and waters were coordinated and the vehicles were there waiting to be allowed to enter.

At approximately 2:30pm, the officers at the camp advised the Canutillo vehicle that the parents of the minors would not be arriving until after 6:00 pm as they were scattered throughout Otero county, Sierra Blanca, and other areas. They were going to keep them in the parking lot until further notice. At 2:45 pm, the Phoenix vehicle was told that only one of the parents of the minors was at the camp and could be reunified. The child was reunified but the rest were told to sit until further notice. Several emails went through during the time the vehicles were waiting and the transports pending were changed several times. A bus that was to arrive at 6 pm was then rescheduled for flights to take place the following morning as per Shannon Herboldsheimer. We later received an email that the bus transport was back on the plan to arrive between 10:30 pm and 11:00 pm. At 5:00 pm, the agents at the camp stated they would prefer we turn back to the shelter and wait for them to reach us at the shelter, once that parents of the minors had arrived. So the vehicle from Canutillo, and the vehicle transporting the Phoenix minors return to the shelter site, ate dinner, and are currently awaiting the arrival of the parents so that the children can be transported back to the camp. Time is indefinite. We are on standby. We have made arrangements with our overnight staff for support. The staff provided the agent with a cell phone number, but unfortunately the employees did not get the person's name or number.- Ernesto

All,

I've seen scattered reports in the media of separated parents and children, as in the one in the Post today where the father is in El Salvador and the child is in the US, presumably in our custody.

Is it possible to put these stories in one place? With names, we could probably locate the kids and try to resolve their cases. I think you all would have the most comprehensive list of those in the media.

Current referrals and discharges: During the past seven-day period (as of data reported on the 3 July dashboard), average referrals rose to 71 UAC/ day (+16 from previous week) and average discharges fell to 42 UAC/day (-1 from previous week). The 30-day discharge rate has fluctuated between 1.9 and 2.0 this week.

Current Capacity: ORR continues to monitor shelter occupancy on a daily basis, currently at 43% (+8% from previous week) and to adjust in anticipation of expected need. On June 11, the second phase of 20% capacity reductions for residential Shelter and Transitional Foster Care (TFC) beds was implemented. On July 1, ORR reduced Shelter and TFC beds by an additional 824 beds. ORR does not anticipate any additional bed capacity reductions in FY17. ORR has an increased focus on monitoring specialty bed capacity (Secure, Staff Secure, Residential Therapeutic Center, and Long-Term Foster Care) in addition to standard Shelter and TFC.

Congress: The ORR Director participated in a hearing on June 22, 2017, before the Senate Judiciary Committee. The ORR Director, Deputy Director for Children's Programs, and health division director met with Rep. Michael C. Burgess (R-TX) on June 23. ORR is working with Office of Legislative Affairs and Budget (OLAB) and the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Legislation (ASL) to respond to an oversight letter from Chairman Ron Johnson of the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee.

Communications: An online fact sheet on the Community Safety Initiative is in development. ORR and ACF Coms are collaborating with DHS public affairs on messaging for DHS' UAC Sponsor Initiative.

Mission Risks and Challenges: ORR is working to develop and implement strategies to mitigate each of the risks and challenges identified for this mission.

- 1. ORR may experience shortfall in Secure Shelter capacity as a result of increasing domestic apprehensions of gang members. ORR has 58 Secure Shelter beds nationwide in two facilities. Recent rapid increases in the number of referrals requiring Secure-level care, as a result of domestic apprehensions following law enforcement actions including large-scale anti-gang operations, suggest that this level may be inadequate for emerging requirements. On June 30's Specialty Bed Capacity Report, male Secure beds were at 94% capacity (-4%).

The next Specialty Bed Capacity Report will be released on Friday, 7 July (due to the July 4 holiday, there will be no Specialty Bed Capacity Report on Tuesday of this week). ORR is working on plans to procure additional Secure beds by a contract mechanism.

2. Future UAC referral levels are volatile and unpredictable. In partnership with Department of Homeland Security and other partners in the UAC Unified Coordination Group (UCG), ORR works to obtain best available intelligence on potential future migration patterns affecting referral numbers. DHS projections anticipate average daily UAC migration from 17-67 through the end of Quarter 3. DHS Intelligence and Analysis advises that the Quarter 4 projections will be available in mid-July.
3. DHS immigration enforcement actions may adversely affect discharge rate. DHS has launched a national "UAC Sponsor Initiative," which involves contacting sponsors of UAC who are without legal status, interviewing them, and in some cases taking them into custody, issuing criminal charges against them, or issuing Notices to Appear. Effects of this initiative upon readiness of individuals to step forward as sponsors are expected to result in significant increases in length of stay and decline in discharge rate. This step would represent one-half of the DHS policy changes necessary to fulfill the "DHS Deterrence" scenario model (since family unit separations are not yet being implemented). ORR is currently reviewing that model to determine if it should be refined to current policy realities.
4. Risks of too many vs. too few open beds must be balanced. ORR is implementing total cuts of approximately 35% of Shelter and TFC beds in June, to mitigate against budgetary risks of too many open beds. ORR is currently modeling four scenarios using the Bed Capacity Model tool: Current Referrals and Discharges, DHS Deterrence, and DHS Projections. The DHS Deterrence and Steady Growth scenarios require additional beds in FY 2017. DHS Projections and Current Referrals/Discharges scenarios, however, do not require additional beds in FY17 or early FY18. As a result, at this time, ORR does not anticipate either adding or reducing standard shelter and TFC beds in FY17. ORR's Division of Planning and Logistics (DPL) continues contingency planning for further increases in daily referrals. ORR briefed the UCG Deputies' Group on June 22 regarding its readiness for influx events, as required under the UCG Plan.
5. Criminal gang activity by some former UACs creates operational and optical risk for the program. ORR is engaged in a Community Safety Initiative designed to assure that program operations do not create risks for American communities. ORR published a new Secure and Staff Secure Policy on June 12. ORR is working with grantees to pilot a Department of Justice-recommended gang prevention program in shelter programs. ORR has been engaging with DHS to make improvements to information sharing related to criminal intelligence and potential community risk issues, both in the process of referrals, and in sponsor vetting and pre-release consultation between ORR and DHS.
6. Natural disasters and all-hazard events, especially hurricanes, pose threats to ORR UAC program operations. The ORR program shelter network includes a number of programs in locations at risk for natural disasters, and the concentration of many programs in a hurricane threat area creates concurrent-impact risks. The scenario of a hurricane impact to the Rio Grande Valley region in Texas, in particular, poses significant threats of program-wide disruption. ORR requires all shelter programs to have emergency contingency and evacuation plans at the facility level, but a regional-level event creates significant risk of program-wide disruption. ORR DPL is analyzing this threat and developing contingency plans for natural disaster scenarios.

Subject: UAC separated from parents

Good afternoon Jonathan,

As requested, below is a breakdown of the trends seen in UAC separations from parents as identified by DHS at the time of referral, both this week and across the last few months. I understand from the field that they are discovering more separations that were not reported in the initial referral- I don't have those numbers. Intakes does keep a daily tracking sheet of separations should you need additional details.

We have received 27 separations over the last 7 days. The majority of these referrals seem to be coming from El Paso and Phoenix. For August to date 50% are from El Paso and 27% Phoenix.

The last 7 days	# of UAC parental separations (as known at initial referral)
8/10	6
8/11	1
8/12	1
8/13	2
8/14	8

Month	# UAC separated from Parent	% of total monthly referrals separated from parent	# of separations clearly identified as due to parental immigration history only	% of separations due to immigration history only
April	10	1.5%	3	30%
May	23	2%	3	13%
June	26	1.6%	4	15%
July	44	1.9%	13	30%
8/1- 8/14	37	--	20	54%

Please let me know if there is any additional information I can help provide.

FIELD REPORT
August 8, 2017

I. Two Week UC Tour Request Look Ahead
Southeast

- Kansas FFS reports Court Administrator will work on providing the court docket on a monthly basis. Court Administrator will meet with the judge next August 15, 2017, at which time will begin to send the Court Docket to LSP.

Northeast

- The team from the Assistant Secretary for Financial Resources office completed a tour of Youth for Tomorrow on August 1, 2017. Eight staff members were scheduled to be present for the tour. The FFS supported program staff by answering questions related to program operation.

South Texas

- Victor Suh, from the ORR Policy Division, will be visiting the South Texas region on August 10, 2017 and August 11, 2017 to attend, and support local ORR staff, a DHS HSI training regarding gang information/identification.

II. Implementation of Program Priorities
LENGTH OF CARE EFFORTS AND REGIONAL TRENDS
Central Texas

- BCFS TFC FFS has seen an increase in parent/child separations by DHS. Of the 10 reported incidents, 9 were from the El Paso area and 1 from San Luis, Arizona; 9 of 10 were of tender age. FFS are currently working closely with the FOJC to provide contact information, as most of the UACs do not have contact information themselves. FFS Omar Corrales has instructed the program to notify him immediately if DHS is not cooperating with obtaining information. The FOJC has been helpful providing contact information to the program. There have been 20 Parent/child separation SIRs from July 18, 2017 to present; most of which were from the El Paso area.

Northeast

- FFS and CFS have been working diligently to support the Holy Family in the release process. CFS Monica Samayoa-Brown, recently held a 2 hour session with the program on completing proper releases and ensuring documents are properly loaded into the portal for FFS release.

SIGNIFICANT PREA REGIONAL TRENDS OR ISSUES

Central Texas

- A male minor from BCFS SAC touched three male minors in their private area. Minor reported he was only horse playing. The other minors suggested he be moved to another dorm. Minor was moved and is now on close supervision.

Northeast

- Bethany Christian Services contacted law enforcement to report the incident on July 27, 2017. Law enforcement interviewed all minors reported to be involved in the incident, however 3 of 4 minors denied the reported allegations. Each resident's room in shelter was searched by a BCS staff member, and no prohibited items were found. CPS worker arrived on July 27, 2017 speak with the minors to confirm their wellbeing. CP and State Licensing investigator returned on August 1, 2017 to continue their investigation and interview all minors involved. They will provide a report once available. Staff member accused of providing minors with alcohol was terminated by Bethany Christian Services.

SIGNIFICANT MEDICAL REGIONAL TRENDS OR ISSUES

Central Texas

- Minor at BCFS SAC with terminal kidney failure will be having her final interview next week to be put on the transplant waitlist. BCFS Medical stated after this upcoming interview the process will go quickly and hopefully minor receives a kidney soon. As per ORR Medical, minor is to stay at her current placement until completely healed. Once healed she can transfer to LTFC.
- Minor at BCFS staff secure with heart disease will undergo procedure as soon as possible in San Antonio, Texas.
- Minor at BCFS SAC was diagnosed with HEP B. Local health department has been notified. ORR Medical is aware and suggested minor be recommended for PRS once she reunifies. Same minor also claims she has Leukemia but has not been confirmed at this time by the medical team.

OVERSIGHT AND FIELD TEAM CORRECTIVE ACTIONS

III. Emerging Issues and Opportunities

AGE DETERMINATION

Central Texas

- ST. PJs Children Home had an age redetermination and he was discharged on July 28, 2017.

Southeast

- One minor at Boystown is requesting voluntary departure. His master calendar hearing is scheduled for September 5, 2017.

South Texas

- IES Driscoll was issued a Corrective Action Plan for continued and multiple errors when issuing medications to UAC. FFS and PO are continuing to provide guidance/feedback regarding this issue.

VOLUNTARY DEPARTURE

OTHER

Central Texas

- BCFS SS continues to step children down to BCFS SAC
- Two UAC absconded from BCFS San Antonio. Law Enforcement was not successful finding the runaways.

Southeast

- Due to family emergency, both the Program Director and Lead Case Manager may be unavailable for an extended time at Maryville Academy.
- FFS conducted a follow-up site visit at His House on August 4, 2017. Approximately thirty staff signed a grievance against the chief executive officer, chief program officer, and HR director alleging hostile work environment and cronyism. There is fear and tension among the staff. However, upon interview and observation of the UAC this situation does not appear to be affecting them at this time. The kids observed appeared happy and the kids interviewed had no complaints, reported receiving appropriate services, and were content with the services received.

- Boystown's Lead Case Manager has left her position with Catholic Charities Boystown. The position is currently open.
- Boystown will be monitored by ORR's monitoring team next week.

Western Region

Northeast

- On July 7, 2017, Monitor John Wagner issued his final corrective action report is to Kids Peace. The program final response was provided on August 4, 2017. Areas cited included:
 - Section 5.6.2 Maintaining Case Files
 - 3.1.3 Admissions

DHS Policy is working on a family separation policy again, to send all children to ORR. They don't understand that ORR has its own obligations and these types of cases often end up with parent repatriated and kid in our care for months pending home studies, international legal issues, etc.

I will try to get some info unless you and Scott already have it.

Heads up for you that we are managing it but we are having challenges with placements for babies.

(We got 143 referrals yesterday. That's quite a jump up so we are concerned if that gets sustained. But we have a specialized problem right now.)

We also received a number of infant placements or complex placements requiring beds for babies--this one is tricky because most of our beds licensed for babies, at least near the Border, were at IES. We had a shortage last night of beds for babies. I will be having a call with staff to work through contingency plans and available options but we may not be able to maintain the strict placement hold at IES.

Overall, infant placements seem to be climbing over recent weeks, and we think that's due to more separations from mothers by CBP. We will be talking about that issue this coming week.

I'll let you know if there's anything you need to know, but just as a heads up: we are facing some challenges with beds for our youngest UAC.

Subject: Family Separations

Hello Jallyn,

As you are aware the number of UAC that are referred to DCS and who were separated from a parent or guardian at the border has been increasing the last several months. As we, Field Team, strengthens our systems to quickly connect separated parents with children we are exploring the best ways for community stake holders to locate children who are sought out by their parents. The two options that we are aware of are either the ORRNC or the Intakes Hot Line. So far our Intakes Hot Line has done a great job of collecting data for cases of UAC separated from parents and those cases are identified by DHS at the time of referral. Intakes can continue to handle these cases and even a slight to moderate increase in cases. If cases increase in vast numbers, then we might need help with:

- Having the call center assist with stake holder referrals regarding separated minors.
- Asking ORR leadership to find out if there is a DHS initiative in place regarding expedited removals for a specific group of individuals. Below is more detail shared with use from a public defender's office in New Mexico. The office informed me that all of the cases identified in New Mexico are Guatemalan and not Mexican.

Background Information:

This month, as of today, we are already at 85 referred placements. What we do not know is if the number of cases reported by BP to Intakes is accurate. We suspect that there are other UAC being separated from parents at the border so we have asked USBP in HQ to ask their field offices to be more vigilant in reporting these cases. Both the local offices and HQ have agreed to be more responsive in letting ORR DCS Intakes know at the point of referral that the parent is being separated from his or her child and why.

As of last week I received a call from the Public Defender's office in New Mexico. The administrator for the office informed me that her region is seeing a spike in family separations. Yesterday I asked her how many cases was her office receiving on a daily or weekly basis. She informed me today that her office has recently began collecting basic data. For the last two weeks her office, which covers all of New Mexico, received 9 then 12 such cases each respective week. The cases that New Mexico receives are under the El Paso office of BP. She has since began to ask her colleagues in other border states about their regions and will get back to us.

The Public Defender office administrator also informed me that she will be sending the names of adults and children that she is aware of. This will allow us to check our list of known referrals and this will also allow the shelters and FFS to locate detained parents which will assist with discharge planning. The length of time some parents are in detention before they are repatriated is as brief as 5 days. This means we have to connect with a parent quickly. If we are able to quickly connect a child to a detained parent it might buy us some time to assess if the child would be safe to return home with the parent at the time of repatriation or if the child would best be served by remaining in the US with a sponsor identified by the parent.

I also asked if the parents in detention are there pending charges other than immigration related charges or criminal charges. It appears that all known cases involve either a parent crossing illegally into the US for the first time or coming in as a reentry. There are no other types of charges such as these.

Last, we have been working on going from Intakes tracking these cases on a spreadsheet to tracking these cases on a workflow similar to what we are using for runaways. The months of October and November are nearly complete on the SharePoint tracker and if all goes well Intakes can go live with the workflow to the FFS/Shelter CM as soon as next week. That will give us the opportunity to gather better data, with less effort, and produce data which we can use in daily operations and planning.

Good Afternoon team,

With the increase of referrals it has definitely become very busy and at times overwhelming during shifts. We appreciate all the hard work you have all done. As shifts get busier certain procedures can easily fall behind when we are trying to work as fast as possible. Please do your very best to keep following all procedures.

Due to the rise of parent separations, management is focusing more on how many cases we are receiving and tracking them. In the past few days I've noticed a lot of parent separation cases on the spreadsheet that were missing information, even though the information was provided in the Intakes form. Please make sure to thoroughly review the notes section in the form and scroll all the way down, I've noticed that most of the information you need is at the bottom. Continue to follow up with DHS if the parent's name or A# is missing or no reason was provided. I know certain sectors, specifically Phoenix/Yuma, isn't very good about providing feedback. Even if they are not responsive, we must try to get the required information. Also, please make sure to use the language "Parent Separation:" at the beginning for each case so that it's easy to filter on the spreadsheet and send to the CFS team without having to duplicate work.

Thank you again for all your hard work!

Please confirm that you have received and read this email.

Hello

I have a few questions.

- If the CFS is already included on the SIR that is being sent to Intakes why would the Lead CFS need to check if the case already submitted on Sharepoint. Wouldn't it be easier for the assigned CFS for each of their perspective programs to check for duplicates and add the information on sharepoint?
 - o My suggestion-For tracking purposes would it be possible for Intakes to add the SIR's on the tracker with the intake referrals but add a column to distinguish if it is an intakes or program referral. Since we have CFS working on a daily shift for the parental separation project those individuals would add the program and intake referrals on sharepoint.
- As for checking for duplicates the CFS working their shift on this project have been instructed to check for duplicates. Why would the Lead CFS need to check for this?

Thank you

Hi Caroline,

We were just in a meeting with Jim and the following was discussed:

Per Jim, Starting today, 5/24, the CFS team will be completing the SIR notifications for separations on the SharePoint Tracker. Separation SIR Notifications received by the Intakes team will be forward to and added by the CFS team.

Please ensure that before adding new cases on the SharePoint tracker, CFS Leads verify that their information hasn't already been entered. Check with minor's full name/A#.

Should we report if someone else already added the case on SharePoint. Which means it is duplicate on the trackers. I do not know if this would help for number purposes.

- If more than one CFS added the same case on SharePoint, the newest entry should be deleted and we do not need it reported. *Before adding new cases on the SharePoint tracker, CFS Leads should verify that the minor's information hasn't already been entered. Check with minor's full name/A#.

By accident we have found out the A# or name is incorrect on the spreadsheet tracker. Should we inform you of this error? (We have found this when there are multiple programs listed on the spreadsheet tracker so we go on the Portal to check the correct program)

- Yes, inform Rocio, Johanna, and Olivia and Sabrina as we will have to update the spreadsheets.
- Please note, Intakes has been receiving referrals of the same minor on different shifts (same day or on different dates) when the minor has been pending placement for 24+hours due to lack of bed availability. We have already sent a reminder to the team to continuously check for dup referrals to avoid double placement at programs. Please notify us as soon as possible so we can update information on our end.

Should we report cases that been cancelled no longer placed in ORR care.

- Yes, per Jim, minors that have been referred to ORR and received placement at a program should be added on the SharePoint tracker. This information will be on the spreadsheet forwarded to the CFS Leads by either [REDACTED] on a daily basis.
- If a minor was entered on the SharePoint tracker because he received placement at a program, but then Portal shows minor as "cancelled" day(s) later, their entry on SharePoint should not be deleted. Jim has made a formal request to our SharePoint POC asking that a cancelled option be added on the SharePoint tracker to differentiate those that are in care and those that are not anymore.

If there are any questions or concerns, please feel free to elevate them.

Thank you,

We have a number of things we'd like to discuss to make sure we are on the same page. I believe it is our turn to come your way.

Jim,

We are attaching our guidance to be shared with programs for weekend submissions. This should be flowed down to programs ORR wants to be included in this push.

Re: Resourcing

We have identified 5 CC on both Sat / Sunday with an on call CC supervisor + data / inbox support.

Re: Homestead

We will be able to manage flow from Homestead as well over the weekend following the same eligibility criteria (Cat 1 & 2 and appropriate exclusions). We've been in communication with their site leadership and their cases will remain routed to existing processes.

We are also flowing this guidance down to our ORRCC team.

Please let me know if you should have any questions.

Thanks,

Elliott

The finger print checks should not interfere with this weekend's operations. The new finger print policy begins today. Any sponsor who received a FRP and instructions prior to today can complete their case using the old methods. (At least that is what was reported out by Policy yesterday and Toby reconfirmed with me this afternoon.)

Jim,

I have talked with Hilda and we will assemble a team of folks to cover on Sunday. As we do not know of the volumes that will be coming through, we can reduce the team size if the volumes are not justifying at perhaps 1:00 pm CT on both days. We will plan for up to 4:00 pm ET coverage. We understand the pressure your team is under now and we are happy to assist.

I'm reattaching the draft instructions for submission (still for Saturday only but will update) intended for distribution to the field. Note this does "exclude" Homestead cases, but please advise if that changes.

We are available to discuss as you need.

This morning we discussed the possibility of having GDIT available for both Saturday and Sunday if volume is high. We understood that you would work towards potential coverage for Sunday if the shelters can get a sufficient number of referrals in. The FFS Team will be prepared with short notice.

I had also called Hilda to let her know that you were working towards this. (Scott Lloyd and Jallyn both agreed before I called you that both Saturday and Sunday would be best if we can get kids out.) I am not certain of the purpose for including an email from the FFS who was advised of case coordination last night before our discussion. It is now disappointing to hear that you won't be able to make an attempt but I understand.

We can shift towards both days, but for this weekend we'd like to start with this 6 (scalable down if flow is not high) for Saturday.

It takes a bit of time to resource for to move into Sat & Sunday ops.

Also, I'm attaching an email from the ORR field indicating that seems to indicate operations just for Saturday.

Perhaps we can revisit after how this weekend goes.

Good morning team,

Please see below message from ORR Management:

Good morning Care Providers:

As you have noticed, ORR is experiencing a higher number of referrals, especially for Tender Aged (12 years and younger) UAC. It is imperative that case management services is ongoing, especially during non-traditional hours such as evenings and weekends, when sponsors are more likely to be available to provide information. Please ensure that a case manager is on duty during early evening hours (until 9p) and during the weekends to ensure that case management services and submissions of release requests are processed as soon as possible. ORR and GDIT will be making sure that FFS and CC staff are available to process releases during these periods of time.

This Saturday the Centralized Release Mailbox will be staffed to receive cases. Release operations on Saturdays are to alleviate the lack of bed space in Border Patrol Stations.

Guidance will be provided as received.

Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

Thank you,

Hilda –

We had a meeting with Jim and Jose today and wanted to loop back with you on our resourcing.

Jim had asked us whether we could potentially have team members available on Sunday in the event there was more cases than our identified team (3 CCs currently) could handle. The total of 3 CC was based on your original parameters. Triggering a Sunday team to be on call has challenges.

Our Suggestion:

To deal with the situation that there were "more" cases, we could go up to 6 CC on Saturdays (with the Inbox routing staff + on-call supervisor). If "more" cases do not materialize by 1:00 pm ET to keep the team busy, we can peel back our staffing level to 3 or less. We can manage these additional hours within our budget through the course of July.

Is this okay to plan for?

Thanks,

Elliott

Hi Jim –

I wanted to send over an updated draft instruction document for our possible weekend operations for Case Coordination. If we are okay on the parameters, it needs to be circulated out (updated if needed) to the care providers and field for implementation and awareness.

Resourcing:

We are planning for 3 CCs, plus a data support staff for our inbox management and an on-call Supervisor. Note that if our Saturday team has reached the limit of cases they can do (an approximate maximum of 30 cases) we will notify programs who have submitted cases that they will need to submit the case(s) following the normal Mon-Fri procedures.

Questions:

Are CCs routing the completed TPRs to the CMB?

We are limiting to CAT 1 and CAT 2 SR.

We are excluding Homestead (as they do not submit cases to the CMB) and restricting this to permanent shelter programs.

We are going to send out a request for volunteers to work, and are awaiting to hear whether this is indeed approved on your side before we fully move ahead.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Apologies for the late email but MCAT called me a few minutes ago stating that there are a bunch of tender age girls pending designation over 72 hours. They are going to wake their C1. I suspect this will escalate quickly. I have [REDACTED] running the numbers on tender age bed availability - looks to be somewhere between 40 and 60 tender age beds left

I did explain the licensing issue to Sabri and made sure he understood that we are bringing on capacity as fast as we can and converting as many beds to tender age as possible but this is caused by the policy decision to separate kids from their families as a deterrent. This is one

As you know, those beds are at a premium and tender age placement is our highest priority. DUCO is converting every bed that can be converted to tender age. Beds are licensed at age groups and not every shelter can receive young children.

Carlos,

I am the Duty AUSA this week and had a meeting in chambers with U.S. Magistrate Ronald Morgan regarding the treatment and unification of illegal immigrant parents and their children held under our new "Zero Tolerance Policy." The Judge has ORDERED under PENALTY OF CONTEMPT that my office submit a list to the Judge by close of business Friday June 8th of the minor child's name, child's current location after being taken from their parent, and the date/place of reunification with their parent or a relative in the USA for each minor child held by Border Patrol. This list will be compiled weekly and the AUSA must file a report to the Magistrate Court as to the immigrants & children held in our sector. He was very heated about this and told me personally that if it's not done the AUSA and any agent with CBP or Border Patrol can plan on spending the weekend in custody. I will expect this information daily so that I can have a list prepared by Friday afternoon. Please reach out to me if you have any questions.

Good Morning,

U.S. Magistrate Judge Ronald G. Morgan was apparently very upset this morning about the family separation under Zero Tolerance. He has basically ordered us to keep constant track of the children once they are separated from their parents and when and where they are reunified. This is going to be a huge headache, I might be spending some time in the slammer ☹

Thanks,

Carlos,
I am the Duty AUSA this week and had a meeting in chambers with U.S. Magistrate Ronald Morgan regarding the treatment and unification of illegal immigrant parents and their children held under our new "Zero Tolerance Policy." The Judge has ORDERED under PENALTY OF CONTEMPT that my office submit a list to the Judge by close of business Friday June 8th of the minor child's name, child's current location after being taken from their parent, and the date/place of reunification with their parent or a relative in the USA for each minor child held by Border Patrol. This list will be compiled weekly and the AUSA must file a report to the Magistrate Court as to the immigrants & children held in our sector. He was very heated about this and told me personally that if it's not done the AUSA and any agent with CBP or Border Patrol can plan on spending the weekend in custody. I will expect this information daily so that I can have a list prepared by Friday afternoon. Please reach out to me if you have any questions.

Subject: Judge Leslie Bowman Inquiry

Henry,

On Tuesday May 29, 2018, Tucson Sector Border Patrol met with Chief Judge Raner Collins to discuss the possibility of increasing the number of daily prosecutions. Also attending this meeting were several Magistrate Judges, several AUSAs, Yuma Sector Border Patrol and Office of Chief Counsel- Tucson. After the meeting, Judge Leslie Bowman, approached me and asked if she could call and discuss the reunification process of the children of parents being prosecuted under OSL/CCI. She explained that these parents, and their attorneys, have been asking question before, during and after proceedings regarding the whereabouts of their children and also the time and place of reunification. Today Judge Bowman called to discuss this issue as she is serving as the fact-finder on behalf of other magistrates and public defenders.

I explained to Judge Bowman our different roles (USBP and ERO) and also explained to her the role of HHS/ORR. I explained to her that separating children from a parent that has committed a crime is common place in any location within the US – happens every day. She understood, but her concern was more related to ensuring that the parent and child would be reunified prior to renatiation. I explained to her that this happens within a matter of a few days / weeks when involving a subject who has been processed-out as time served. She then asked about the reunification of the children of parents who serve out longer sentences - 180 days or longer. She wanted to know where these children are being housed and whether or not the child and parent can speak to one another during this time period. She asked if there was a phone number or POC that a parent or a public defender could call that would allow the parent to communicate with the child during their incarceration. I explained to her that I didn't have the answers to her questions but that I would put her in contact with DHS/ICE/ERO as this resides within their purview. I sensed that her, and others, concerns were related to recent stories in the media pertaining to HHS/ORR losing 1400 children. She asked if it would be possible if an official from DHS/ICE/ERO could come to the courthouse and meet with a few of the magistrates, public defenders and also the CBP Attorneys serving as Special Assistant United States Attorneys (SAUSAs) to explain the process. I explained that I am not in the position to make those decisions but that I would pass along the information. I did say that it would be unfortunate if, while the ERO official is attempting to explain the process, they were put on the defensive by the attending public defenders. She advised that it would be her meeting and that she would not allow that to happen.

I've copied Caroline Blessey and Andrew Jones to this email as they oversee the CBP SAUSAs. I've also copied Chris Defreitas as he or I would also be available to attend, if requested, to respond to any questions pertaining to our processes.

- Establish and initiate process between ICE, the IMT, and ORR to identify parents approaching readiness for release, removal, or ATD; receive background check summaries from ICE; and have ORR shelter grantees prioritize case management for relationship verification and suitability
- Determine resource requirement to place assets in contact with EVERY parent in ICE detention to get FRPs from all of them
- Determine how many of the UAC on the Data Team's list of separated youth in care still need an FRP and other key milestones so we can make realistic plans with respect to timeframe and resources required
- Develop system to daily report how many UAC are not in contact with parents, and list of those who are not so that ICE can put parents on the phone immediately to achieve 100% contact with parents
- Determine ground truth on minors in ORR care who are identified as having parents in ICE data systems but not identified as separated in ORR data system
- Implement Federal or contractor resource mechanisms to achieve reunification surge, with potential to shift from ICE to ORR shelters if required.

Hi J-

Just a quick thought. If we haven't done whatever it takes to authorize overtime, we probably need to do that. We are asking folks to work 60-80 hours a week.

And by the way, folks are going to be tired after this, way beyond burnout. Any support we can give, we should.

I imagine that it is stressful in Switzer too. I hear that you are handling the Hill – what a trooper – and still working long hours. I hope your dog is handling it well.

We should try to communicate more often. See you soon.

For those going into DHS custody (into FRCs), HHS top-level policy decision is we will want DNA on all the minors and all the adults (all ages of child) for relationship verification—criminal background check and DNA results are the criteria for reunification of minors going into FRCs with ICE UNLESS there are clear red flags or signs of abuse documented. We will be getting SOPs

For those going to community release

Chiefs, Deputies,

I apologize for the quick turnaround and ask here, but as most of you heard during the teleconference call, LEOD was tasked with consolidating sector information for a path forward for zero tolerance taking into consideration the EO and the injunction.

Please provide the following by 0800 a.m. tomorrow morning to Assistant Chiefs [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] with a cc to me, Deputy Chief [REDACTED] and Associate Chief [REDACTED]

1. Assess your ability to prosecute and return FMUA related adults back to USBP custody within 72 hours in order to be compliant with FLORES.
 - a. Provide challenges such as time and distance from the courthouse, sentences greater than time served that impact your ability to prosecute and maintain compliance with FLORES.
 - b. Provide Operational impacts such as needing to use BPAs to transport to and from court causing an operational impact and staffing drain on sector
2. Provide any partner resourcing constraints or court requirements constraints (DOJ, Courts-Chief Judge, Marshals)—short bullets please.

3. Provide any feedback as to if this is a good idea and any other operational concerns in making this happen, such as court insistence in providing lengthier sentences than time served, etc.

HQ will compile all responses for a consolidated response to C1/C2 for their discussions with S1, the Deputy Attorney General and the Administration.

Hello Mr. Gonzalez,
I spoke with DHS officer Danielle Hernandez again today and she stated the following.

ICE is running out of bed space to release the parents, they have partnered with a local NGO/church and when they run out of space they stop all reunifications. She stated this is what happened yesterday and when they run out of bed space the process halts.

She anticipates ICE will be stopping all reunifications much earlier today due to limited bed space, and that we may see as many as 50 kids who cannot be reunified today. That number was a rough estimate from her however we do need to make preparations for these children. We have staff onsite who will be trying to get updates throughout the day to communicate to ORR, but I anticipate we will have large groups of children who we will need to find alternate housing for over the next several days.

For SWK, I propose that we close all intakes in El Paso and stop receiving new children in order to accommodate as many children as possible until further notice. Additionally, I request that we have authorization from ORR this weekend to continue placing children in hotels when reunifications stop at ICE each day and there is no shelter bed space.

Thank you for your assistance!

Subject: Fw: IMPORTANT - Message from FHCO
Importance: High

Good morning,

I am issuing the following guidance to ensure clarity during this operation. If you have any questions, please let us know. Thank you for your support.

Arriving Children

- Effective today, children who have arrived for reunification should not be turned away from the detention center and sent to hotels without prior approval from IMT command team. Notice of these situations need to be sent immediately to the FHCO and Deputy FHCOs (Swartz, Falone, Hall) including reason (e.g. NGO support unavailable, ICE hours of operations, etc.). Approvals for redirection of minors from reunification sites to hotels or local programs must be made by IMT leadership prior to movement. The only exceptions to this are where immediate child safety issues (e.g., hydration, heat risk) require emergent movements.

Information

- If you need information, reach back. Don't wait. Actively seek the information you expect.
- Confirm receipt of information. If you are sending information, expect the recipient to confirm receipt. If not confirmed, clarify that information was received.
- Assume information may have errors. Do not rely upon information received; immediately confirm any questioned results.
- As previously emphasized, it remains critical that all ORR and ICE parent clearances are 100% verified and correct prior to the final reunification of child with parent.

Interviews

- If interviews are not completed prior to arriving child(ren), the interview form should be completed as part of the reunification process.
- All parents eligible for interview and at PIDC, Phoenix, El Paso and South detention sites must have interviews completed today.
- Newly arriving parents should be interviewed within 12 hours of arrival at PIDC, Phoenix, El Paso and South detention center. Exceptions to this 12-hour timeframe need to be requested by the HHS onsite lead to IMT leadership in DC.

Deportations

- All deportations notices/information is to be sent to [REDACTED]@hhs.gov, [REDACTED]@hhs.gov, [REDACTED]@hhs.gov and the FHCO (jonathan.white@hhs.gov) and Deputy FHCOs (Tricia Swartz, Emily Falone, CAPT Dana Hall)

Communications

- Critical issues need a phone call and/or an email marked "Urgent."

Evelyn:

As discussed earlier, Politico has spun an inaccurate narrative and repeated it in three different articles:

Lloyd was effectively removed as refugee director this summer after his office struggled to care for and reunite thousands of migrant children who were separated from their families under the Trump administration's now-defunct "zero tolerance" border policy, three individuals told POLITICO last month.

For instance, Lloyd told staff to stop keeping a spreadsheet tracking separated families. At one point during the height of the crisis, HHS Secretary Alex Azar personally stepped in to review case files after he learned Lloyd's office had yet to review hundreds.
